"New Skills for Future Manufacturing"

We are glad to invite you to take part in the World Manufacturing Forum Annual Meeting 2019.

During the forthcoming edition of the WMF Annual Meeting, it will be highlighted how, in the wake of the Fourth Industrial Revolution, technological innovation is rapidly moving forward. Thus, new crucial skills must be developed starting from primary education and continuing with workers retraining.

Participants invited to take part in the WMF Annual Meeting 2019 will have the opportunity to hear how a future-oriented industrial policy will support advanced manufacturing requirements, highlighting different perspectives from countries such as Brazil, Canada, China, Germany, Italy, Netherlands, UK, USA, and many others. Furthermore, the Forum will encourage well-rounded discussion thanks to the participation of high-level speakers representing international companies, institutions and academia. Among them, we will have the pleasure to host representatives from UNIDO, World Economic Forum, PTC, OECD, Confindustria, Dow Chemical Company, National Science Foundation and the European Commission.

Registrations are now open, we invite you to register at <https://registrations.worldmanufacturingforum.org/>
